

Funding Announcement for U54 PHSU-MCC Partnership Developmental Research Projects

Application deadline: October 1, 2018 at 5 pm

$50,000 for one year

The Ponce Health Sciences University and Moffitt Cancer Center Partnership to Advance Cancer Health Equity (PACHE) announce the availability of funds to support joint developmental research projects in cancer.

- $50,000 will support one-year developmental research projects (funding expected by Nov 1, 2018, subject to the availability of extramural funds).
- Proposals must involve an investigator from each institution. Investigators should have a faculty appointment at their respective institution.
- Partnership leaders are available to assist interested applicants with identifying a partner at the other institution (please email douglas.cress@moffitt.org as soon as possible to request assistance).

Proposals will be evaluated for:

- Scientific merit
- Potential to progress to an independent peer-reviewed grant (NIH, ACS, DoD, Research Foundations)
- Promotion of partnership objectives, such as, a focus on cancer health disparities, and training of minority and early-stage investigators

For more information or to receive an application and program guidelines contact:

Hannia Delgado at Ponce Health Sciences University (hdelgado@psm.edu)

Sabrina Rodriguez at Moffitt Cancer Center (Sabrina.Rodriguez@moffitt.org)

Information about the PHSU-MCC Partnership is also available at <https://www.phsu-moffitt.org>.